Washington, DC -- In light of today's Supreme Court decision in Citizens United v. FEC, the American Constitution Society for Law and Policy (ACS) is pleased to share with you a wealth of resources that we hope you'll find helpful in preparing your stories on this major decision regarding campaign finance regulation and the First Amendment. Included below are links to an Issue Brief on the case, to guest articles for ACSblog and to video of a panel discussion on Citizens United, as well as interviews with experts about the case.

ACS can also connect reporters with experts on the case, including Jeffrey D. Clements, author of an ACS Issue Brief on the case and a friend-of-the-court brief filed in Citizens United, Brenda Wright, director of Democracy Program at Demos, and Loyola Law School Professor Richard L. Hasen. Please contact ACS to arrange interviews these experts.
